GENERAL PERSHING ARRIVES HOME

FULL HOUR OF CHEERING AND FLAG RAISING FEATURE OF HIS WELCOME

ACCEPTS TRIBUTE IN NAME OF HIS MEN WHO WENT ACROSS THE DEEP TO FIGHT FOR FAIR FRANCE

SAYS RECEPTION IS OVERWHELMING

HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 8.—The Leviathan with General Pershing aboard docked at Hoboken at 8:45 this morning. He stepped ashore at 9:20, kissed his two sisters and shook hands with Secretary of War Baker. In response to the greetings of the multitude assembled along the water front he said "it is overwhelming. I accept it in the name of the brave Americans who fought for France."

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—General Pershing, the man who led America's armed forces to victory is home again. Hailed as the greatest military leader of a democratic country he stepped ashore to the din and tumult of hundreds of thousands of people who cheered themselves hoarse. More than two and a half years ago General Pershing sailed from Hoboken with a mere handful of men. His movements at that time were shrouded in secrecy. A German victory in France seemed imminent. Shortly his force was augmented and under his leadership the khaki clad youths of America struck the blow that sent Hun militarism reeling to certain defeat and humiliation. In contrast to the stealth of his departure, a stealth made necessary by the U-boat peril and German spies, his home coming was the signal for the greatest demonstration ever seen on the Atlantic coast. On the gang plank, his grim soldierly bearing personified the millions of khaki clad Americans who fought under him. Emblazoned on his shield were the words, Chateau Thierry, Argonne, Meuse and Cantigny. In his soul lay the spirit of the first fifty thousands who went with him to France. This spirit was reflected in the thousands who bade him welcome and who gave vent to that spirit in an hour of cheering and flag waving. Tens of thousands of visitors from all over the United States had flocked to the port to participate in the welcome and get a glance at America's greatest living soldier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The scene and will take four hours to pass in review. General Pershing's welcome and the review of the victorious First Division pioneers is strikingly appropriate. The Pioneers landed in France shortly after the Commander-in-Chief, who reached Paris on June 13, 1917, just as the morale of the French was ebbing low. The American General and the handful of "Yanks" who paraded in Khaki shirts through Paris on that July Fourth, a few days later, were a strange sight to be widely affectionate French, to whom courage and hope returned like a flash of lightning.

The next few months were a period of allied struggle to keep up morale, while General Pershing raced against time, training fighting divisions just behind the lines, building harbor facilities, railroads, telegraph lines and service of supplies which in the following summer enabled him to throw and maintain almost five million men per month against the Germans and wear out their best divisions.

General Pershing and his staff concentrated their strategic plans on the front between Metz and Verdun, where the final decision was eventually worked out, but not until after Americans had been thrown in at practically every point along the line from Alsace to Belgium, following General Pershing's famous offer to General Foch of anything and everything America possessed to dam Ludendorff's waves in the drive to Paris in the spring of 1918.

General Pershing's first victory was the wiping out of the St. Mihiel salient, and was quickly followed by a herculean offensive near Verdun. American divisions rolled into the months long battle until it seemed as if General Pershing in the rear had unlimited resources to tap so smoothly did the organization work. In November the Germans capitulated just as Yankee divisions broke the last German lines in defense until the Rhine.

The Army of Occupation moved quietly to Coblenz and proved the strictest but most popular forces on the parade which starts at 110th Street and moves in full war regalia, gas masks, gun, pack, artillery, ambulances, tanks and every other department, down Fifth avenue past the official reviewing stand in front of the Metropolitan Museum of Art through the Victory Arch at Madison Square. This is the first parade of full war equipment Americans have

KEEP COOL—KEEP CLEAN AND AVOID "FLU" EPIDEMIC

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (United Press.)—A minor epidemic of influenza is practically inevitable throughout America this fall, according to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health for New York City.

Influenza epidemics have always swept countries in pairs, according to Commissioner Copeland. The last one in America prior to last winter was in 1891, which was the minor appendage to the major epidemic of 1890.

Dr. Copeland looks for the epidemic this year to be much lighter than that of 1918, though minor epidemics are often as bad as the major phase. This was true of 1891, he says. But the fact that so many people were affected last year gives added immunity this year.

Speaking to the United Press, Dr. Copeland said "I have no doubt but that we will have another epidemic this year, though infinitely less violent than last year's, when practically every person was afflicted."

"Seventy per cent of last year's victims were between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, probably due to the fact that so many men were in training camps."

"My only fear is that it will attack another age group this year. Apparently the germs develop an appetite for a certain kind of food and choose people of a certain age, though there is no known explanation for the attraction to certain ages."

Asked what could be done to prepare, Dr. Copeland prescribed "soap and water and fresh air."

"Influenza is essentially a house disease," he said. "Apparently it needs long continual contact to become infected. It is not like smallpox, which you could get in a minute. You have to live with influenza to get it."

"It naturally follows that out-of-door life, sleeping with windows open regardless of the weather, taking exercise, and using common sense with regard to food, are the best preventative."

"Above all, avoid those who have influenza. In families patients who have influenza or colds ought to be kept by themselves. They should not associate with others."

"Apparently the germs of influenza are conveyed by the hands more easily than other ways. Everyone should have clean hands. People should make it a rule to wash the hands and face several times a day with soap and water."

Commissioner Copeland says there is no cause for excitement since the Board of Health is watching symptoms of influenza the world over and is co-operating with other boards of health throughout America. It is also working on vaccines.

"Masks are no good, it has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of scientists," says Doctor Copeland. "We are old fashioned here. We do not believe in closing schools or churches. We did everything unconventional here in 1918 and had the lowest death rate of all."

To prove that masks are dangerous instead of healthful, Commissioner Copeland cites the case of San Francisco, which had a high death rate, he thinks because "the masks are filthy, prevent the patient from getting good air, and cause him to breathe bad breath."

"Above all, let's not get excited," says Commissioner Copeland, who advises everyone to do his utmost to "keep his equanimity, piety, and occupation."

Wilson Tells Nebraskans The Treaty is Work Of Honest Men

Monroe Doctrine Authenticated By Great Nations Of The World Is His Defense

ADMITS SHANTUNG IS NOT IDEAL

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—President Wilson arrived here this morning at nine o'clock and was greeted by a crowd which completely filled the streets for eight blocks. Soldiers from the Omaha fort opened a passage way to enable the party to get to the auditorium.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—The President of the United States arrived at the auditorium this morning promptly at ten o'clock and was greeted by a full house. Fully 6,000 people packed the building and many were unable to gain admittance.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—Reservations to the peace treaty were argued today by President Wilson in his speech to Omaha citizens. Going into detail on the various objections to the treaty Mr. Wilson summed up his opinion in just four words "no need for reservations." Defending the treaty against those who are solicitous over the welfare of the Monroe Doctrine Mr. Wilson declared "the Monroe Doctrine is authenticated by all the great nations of the world therefore there is no need of a single reservation." He wanted to know if those who are for quick withdrawal from the league were such poor patriots that they would withdraw from the reconstruction tasks without lending a hand and helping to work out the plans adopted in the treaty. He declared that "domestic matters were not interfered with by the treaty."

Holding a copy of the treaty in his hands he dramatically announced, "this is the work of honest men." His statement drew prolonged cheers from the crowd. Again commenting on the senate he criticized that body for the delay in ratification of the treaty and added, "No man could tell how long it would take that body to do anything."

The President admitted that he had a dislike for the Shantung settlement but declared that it would do no good to refuse to ratify the treaty as so doing would not help China in any way. Again he put up the argument that the opponents of his plans should put up or shut up.

He told Nebraskans that the covenant of the league of nations was the only guarantee against war and without it there would be another war within a generation.

ON THE PRESIDENT'S TRAIN—Professing confidence in victory for the peace treaty and league of nations, Woodrow Wilson today resumed the making of his report to the American people. He is working on two speeches for today. This morning at Omaha and tonight at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Tomorrow he will speak at St. Paul and Minneapolis. Early this morning the presidential train was switched onto a side track near Underwood, Nebraska, as it was ahead of its schedule and it was desired to delay arrival at Omaha until the scheduled time. The President arose early and found the "traveling White House" setting in a magnificent corn field.

VILLA LOSES 356 MEN BUT SUCCEEDS IN ELUDING HIS OLD ENEMIES

BULLETIN, GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 9.—In three successive engagements, General Manuel Dieguez, commander of the Carranza forces in pursuit of Villa and his army in the state of Durango, has completely wiped out the Villista cavalry, according to a statement made by the Mexican Counsel, Senor Fierro here.

The Carranza forces killed 356 Villa followers and captured 800 horses with a large quantity of ammunition, the statement said.

Villa, his chief lieutenant and eighty men escaped into the mountains and are being pursued by a Carranza force under Capt. Caesar Castro. The engagements took place near Durango City, San Gabriel and Nombrie.

WALTER CLARK DIES OF INJURIES

Walter Clark, of Hillsdale, aged 30, and married, died at the Clearfield hospital at 11 o'clock this morning of injuries received when he was crushed under a falling electric light pole while assisting in erecting a power line to the Staver mines near Dime-ling station.

The accident occurred near the Mitchell "Stone House" farm on the Ridge, Saturday morning last about 8:30 o'clock. The pole gang was attempting to set a pole when it broke away and fell catching Clark across the back of the neck and shoulders and crushing him to the ground. One hip was dislocated and he was injured internally, blood gushing from his nose and mouth in torrents.

The injured man was at once removed to the Clearfield Hospital where his injuries were attended to and he was made as comfortable as possible. He rallied for a time and it was at first thought that he had not been seriously injured. A change for the worse occurred yesterday and he continued to sink until the end came. He suffered terribly during last night and this morning.

Walter Clark was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Hillsdale. He was an industrious, hardworking man, well thought of by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and three small children, in addition to his parents, three brothers and two sisters.

W. C. T. U. NOTICE

The West Side W. C. T. U. will meet with the President, Mrs. Robb, this evening instead of meeting at the parsonage.

The first woman to become honorary colonel of a regiment was Princess Charlotte of Prussia, who married Czar Nicholas I, and who, on becoming a widow, asked her brother, then king of Prussia, to transfer to her the colonelcy of the Six Regiment of Prussian Cuirassiers. He did so, and thus the fashion started.

The Serbian woman ranks among the most intellectual in the world. No Serbian girl would feel that she could hold up her head in society unless she could speak at least four languages, and there is scarcely a Serbian woman but can play some musical instrument.

The Serbian laws respecting women are unsurpassed anywhere in the world, the husband being responsible not only for his wife, but for his unmarried sisters.

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED AT JACKSONVILLE

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 8.—Two negroes were taken from the Jacksonville jail today and lynched by an infuriated mob. The negroes were accused of the murder of a resident of Jacksonville. The men were hanged to trees then riddled with bullets after which they were cut down and dragged through the streets.

THREE KILLED IN U. S. SHIP NEW MEXICO

BULLETIN, SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 8.—Departure of the U. S. S. New Mexico, flag ship of the Pacific fleet, for northern waters of the Pacific will likely be delayed owing to a serious explosion in one of the vessels today. Three men were killed. The New Mexico was to have left tonight for the coast of Washington.

The wife of William P. Taner, a Chicago railroad man, caught her foot in a switch "frog" in the yards near Chicago where her husband worked. The husband was with her when the accident occurred and assisted by another man attempted to extricate the woman from her dangerous predicament, as a fast train bore down upon them. When the husband saw it was impossible to liberate the woman he said, "Mary we can't get you out, but I will stay with you" and with that he threw his arms about his wife and almost instantly the locomotive struck them and they were hurled into eternity together, leaving three small children to face the world as orphans.

The action of the Chicago husband is being discussed today from Maine to California. There can be no question about Taner's bravery, but many consider that under the circumstances his thoughts should have been of his little children left alone in the world.

This incident serves to recall to the older people of this section the death of the lamented and gifted hymn writer the late Rev. P. P. Bliss who was born near Pensfield and lived for a time near the George W. Hall home at Hyde City. Rev. Bliss' death was equally as heroic as that of Taner. Rev. and Mrs. Bliss were caught in a train wreck near Ashtabula, Ohio. Mrs. Bliss was pinioned beneath the wreckage of the car in which she was traveling. Her husband, the "singing evangelist" got clear of the wreck, but crawling under the debris he reached his wife's side and when the wreckage caught fire the devoted husband remained with her regardless of her protests until they were both burned to death.

WATCH INFLUENZA

Officials of the State Department of Health say that reports received on inquiries into cases of influenza occurring in York, Luzerne and other counties of Pennsylvania do not indicate that it is an unusual type of the disease and that it does not show signs of the preliminary cases of the serious outbreak which occurred about eleven months ago in this state. It was pointed out at the Department of Health today that a certain number of cases of influenza have been reported in this state every summer and that the number heard of recently has been about normal. There is nothing thus far, it is stated at the capital, to indicate that there has been any recurrence of the epidemic of last year, but a careful watch is being kept and officers have been asked to investigate and report immediately upon symptoms of any influenza cases discovered. Preparations have been made by various branches of the state government to act in event of any increase in the number of cases and the precautions necessary are being urged by many physicians.

WALT MASON CHIRPS THRIFT

Someone asked Walt Mason what he thought of the High Cost of Living. Walt might have replied like the rest of us, with every other word a () but he didn't. He emitted a warble and it has more punch to it than a whole string of ()s. Here it is:

BURNING MONEY

"Life is gay and blithe and sunny since the peace dove hit the breeze; every one is burning money just as though it grew on trees. I insist on thrift and saving, but there's none to heed my words; Johnnies say that I am raving, and throw money to the birds. Men are drawing princely wages, and their breasts are filled with mirth, and they jeer foreboding sages who predict a day of dearth; but that day will come as surely as tomorrow's sun will rise; things will then be going poorly with the giddy spendthrift guys. Things won't boom along forever as they're booming now, my friends; and the man who's truly clever saves as ably as he spends. It is patent to the knowing, in expansive times like these, that the kopecks won't be growing always on the shrubs and trees. There will come a day of trouble, when this boom is left behind, and the kopeck and the ruble will be mighty hard to find; happy when the lads whose wages have been safely placed in brine, who obey the seers and sages, when the saving graft was fine. And how sick will be the mortals who like spendthrifts now behave, who reply with jeers and choruses when we call on them to save."

Today's Political Review

There are so many good things he was Deputy Treasurer under Les- that may be said of the various candidates on the Republican ticket that it would take endless time and space to tell half of what we would like to record so we had to quit discussing Bratton and his case long before we had exhausted the subject in order that we might do justice to those who follow him on the ticket. First to follow him is Richard Burchill, a stalwart Republican of Houtzdale who was a candidate for the office eight years ago. This year he first announced as a candidate for County Commissioner but later in the season switched to the old position. Mr. Burchill is not making a very vigorous campaign but is depending on his friends throughout the county to speak a good word for him. Mr. Burchill is a butcher by trade and has a prosperous business at Houtzdale. This year he was the mercantile appraiser, the appointee of the Board of Commissioners. He performed his duties in a satisfactory manner and made a host of friends on his trip through the county. Next in line comes John E. Johnson of DuBois, who maintains that he is a real contender for the place and is losing no opportunities to put his claims before the voters. Early in the morning and late at night he can be found at work with the individual voter and he lives to catch them in bunches. This man Johnson does not even stop electioneering at lunch time and keeps right on shaking hands with his right hand while feigning with his left. Those methods have elected him in the past. Mr. Johnson is not a novice in the political game as he was a candidate eight years ago for the same office and four years ago when he stayed in the game against Moore. Prominent in the ranks of the firemen he expects to get a good vote among the fire laddies in the different parts of the county. He is a machinist by trade but has not worked at his trade for several years. He has been identified with amusement enterprises and was for a time in the bond brokerage business.

George W. Ralston is the last name appearing on the ticket and his name is frequently mentioned as one of the quite probabilities. Mr. Ralston is a native of Cooper township who came to Clearfield several years ago. He has been a court house attaché ever since coming to Clearfield when

People interested in the forthcoming primaries and fall elections are busily engaged in making an analysis of the two registration days, figuring out just what the results will be. On the face of returns there can be but one conclusion—this is a Republican year, and the Republican candidates are going to be heavily supported. There is one feature that is decidedly interesting. That is the large number of Democrats who have deserted their party and are registering as Republicans. Some people state that this is for the purpose of having a say in the Republican primaries, but good Democrats claim that is being done because these Democrats have become "paved" at President Wilson and the peace covenant. This is said to be especially true as regards the treatment accorded the Irish delegation, who sought the support of the President on the Irish question. No support was given them and many Democrats are changing their party affiliations as a result.—DuBois Courier.

ABOUT OURSELVES, OUR READERS AND OUR ADVERTISERS

The Progress is probably not one of the necessities of life, in fact many tell us that it is a real luxury to have it in the home and office and workshop, but a good live daily newspaper, whether it is The Progress or another, is a necessity in this day and age of the world when events are moving so swiftly and so much depends upon what we know of the doings of our neighbors throughout the county, the nation and the world.

The "red envelope" method of notifying subscribers when their subscription expires has worked out to a queen's taste with our mail subscribers and they like it as well as we do. They tell us so. The condition of our mail subscription today is such that not one subscriber owes us one penny and we hereby give a clean receipt to every reader who gets his paper by mail. If we have made a mistake about this or made any mis-statement we invite any subscriber who gets his paper by mail to come into the office and get a receipt in full to date for the mere asking. That is pretty strong isn't it? But it is true. Every one of our readers who gets his paper thru the mails has paid for the very paper he is reading tonight. Speaks well for these people as paying honest citizens, doesn't it? And how much better it is for the advertiser to have this condition of affairs with the newspaper he uses than in the several mediums which might as well be consigning their papers to the cows and horses and dogs so far as getting paid for it is concerned. Then here is another angle. The fellow who will pay for his newspaper will pay any and all of his bills. Ever think about that? That is why we are proud of our subscribers. They are honest, paying people and advertising your goods in a paper they pay for and read is good business.

Of course, these people are busy. Being honest, they have to work hard and long these days to keep paying their bills and therefore to keep being honest insofar as a man can be honest by paying his bills. In their busy effort to meet and keep on top of Old Man H. C. Living they sometimes forget to give the proper attention to that little impudent "red envelope" and then we bring them up with a quick haul. Some night they do not get their paper. Then it dawns on them that they let their subscription expire and they make a quick rush to the postoffice with the little red demon. Do they get sore about it? No, they know it is good business. They want it that way and they appreciate the business like methods we employ.

At Clearfield, Woodland, Curwensville and Grampian we maintain carrier systems and at these points we do not require cash in advance on subscriptions but we give a worth while discount for cash in advance. Subscriptions at these points are charged for at the rate of forty cents per month until paid but any subscriber has the option of paying for the amount due at the time of the call of the collector and then taking The Progress for an additional three months for a dollar, six months for two dollars or a year for four dollars. And although we lose eighty cents a year on the fellow who pays in this manner in advance we are glad to do it as collecting and record keeping costs money. The cost of delivering The Progress to readers in Clearfield alone is one hundred dollars a month. Perhaps you had not thought of that. This is why we charge forty cents per month unless it is paid in advance.

Now we are down to the important part. If you are a mail subscriber, watch for that red envelope and fire it back to us quick. Don't forget to sign your name as many subscribers have done during the past three or four weeks. If you are a carrier subscriber, the next time the boy calls, have an extra dollar, or two or four to pay in advance. You will like it better that way.

Remember that every dollar we get is going right back into the newspaper. You can see it improving. We know it. Why? Because you have told us so. We set out to make The Progress an institution that Clearfield countians would be proud of and we are going to do it. Your prompt payments will help. We do not ask for charity. We are not starving but we are not afraid of work and we are working long into the nights to make The Progress a real newspaper. Some day we are going to achieve our aims and on that day we will come right out in bold type and say THANK YOU.

THE BOYS OF THE G. A. R. THEN AND NOW

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Sept. 8. (Unitary years ago to accommodate the thousands of soldiers, Columbus today all Columbus was keyed up to day was throwing open its homes to the highest pitch of exuberance and preparation. Decorator were swarming the city with flags and bunting. Gas-lighted arches were being erected in the downtown sections. Mammoth cities of tents were springing up and hand stands and reviewing stands were being built along High street. Columbus was preparing to welcome 100,000 veterans of the civil war to the twenty-second national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Then the blue-coated hordes swept into Columbus from every section of the country.

On Tuesday, September 11, 1888, was held the greatest parade in the history of the city. Leading the columns of sturdy civil warriors were General William Tecumseh Sherman and ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The soldiers marched with firm step and clear eye. The day was clear. A half hundred bands and drum corps resounded martial music while the tread of thousands of feet beat in cadence on the cobblestones of High street. The procession was miles in length and took hours and hours to pass the reviewing stand in East Broad street.

The fifty-third national G. A. R. encampment this week will probably be held in the city of Columbus, Ohio. Instead of mammoth camps, neglecting the fact that the city of Columbus today is a city of 100,000 people, the camps are not needed. These are the last ever held by the veterans of years gone by.

In 1888, the march was nearly three miles in length. Next week's line of march will cover only a very short distance, probably less than a mile. There will be thousands who will not march with their comrades. Special reviewing stands have been erected for them.

Time has marched on in thirty-one years, and many thousands of soldiers have dropped the ranks.

For the first time in the history of G. A. R. encampments, other military organizations will take part. Thousands of Spanish War and World War veterans will march with the civil war heroes. The younger blood of America will take over the more strenuous duties of the civil warriors with zeal born of victory.

Former Governor James A. Campbell, director general of the encampment, has been assured that nearly every post of the American Legion in Ohio will take part in the parade.

Those Curtains—do They Need Washing?

For months now your curtains have been gathering dust and soot, for windows have been opened wide to invite in summer's breezes.

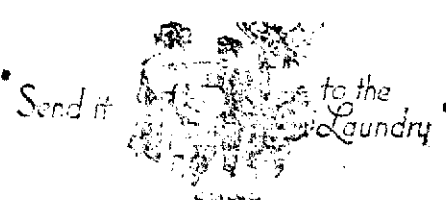

Soot and dust—only too well you realize how they cling and stain. Wouldn't this be a good time to rout them, before they work too deeply into your curtains to be washed out?

We make a specialty of washing curtains—cottons, laces, and all fine nets. Our soft water and careful washing make them as fine, bright and fluff as new.

And we dry them better than could any hand-dryer. Every curtain is measured before we launder it. When it is ready for drying we place it on a special frame of exactly the same measurements.

You'll find no end of satisfaction in sending your curtains to us. Just give them to our driver when he calls for your family washing.

DUBOIS MERCHANTS PLAN FALL OPENING

At one of the most largely attended meetings of DuBois merchants ever held, yesterday morning it was decided to hold the annual fall opening this year on September 17, 18, 19, and 20. The meeting took place at the Community Association rooms and it was particularly gratifying to those who had been at the head of the movement to see such a fine response to the invitation for the gathering. Almost every line of trade was represented and every one expressed themselves as heartily in favor of an opening this year that would far surpass anything yet held.

It is planned to have the opening along different lines this year, in that there will be no formal opening. Hereafter the stores have been decorated and music hired for the opening evening. This year the opening will be a day-time affair and will cover the three days, during which time the merchants will put forward the styles and goods for the fall and winter season.

Fred Brown was named as the chairman of the movement and he will name a committee to work with him in perfecting the arrangements.

With the war a thing of the past and merchants able to get goods and styles that were under prohibition during the war it is expected that the opening this fall will be more elaborate than ever before. At least the merchants of DuBois will work to make this possible and there is every reason to believe that they will succeed. Already most of the goods have been received and are now receiving inspection. During the forthcoming days additional goods will be received and will be arrayed for special display during the opening days. At this time, too, the stores will be specially decorated and it is certain that the local establishments will present an unusually fine appearance during the latter part of September.—DuBois Courier.

POULTRY

BETTER CHICKENS IN SOUTH

Propitious Climate Enables Owner to Produce Eggs to Better Advantage—Some Obstacles.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Increased interest in poultry raising in the general farming sections of the South, with purchase of much better stock, is reported by a specialist of the United States department of agriculture who recently investigated the status and activities of Old Mother Hen in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Producers are working not only to supply the home market but eggs are also being shipped from Mississippi, Alabama and Texas to Memphis, St. Louis, New York and other marketing centers.

The advantages of the South for poultry keeping are manifold, and include a propitious climate, which enables the flock owner to produce eggs to better advantage during the winter season, while he also can make use of simpler and cheaper houses than can his northern associates. Furthermore the favorable weather conditions in the South promote the feeding of green stuff to the hens practically the year around.

There are certain disadvantages, too, such as prevalence of insect pests, including mites, lice, and in some sections mosquitoes and stick-tight fleas, as well as the blue bug in parts of Texas. Furthermore southern markets are not high-paying consumers of locally produced eggs. This is particularly true in the resort section of Florida, where for many years the trade has been accustomed to import its eggs from the North and West. It does not readily transfer this business to local producers. In addition the southern market for eggs is usually "spoiled" due to fluctuations in the tourist traffic.

During the heat of summer egg losses in the South aggregate a considerable sum, largely due to the development of fertile eggs. It is essential that southern producers exert every effort to produce and market only infertile eggs in order to control this source of loss. A common opinion prevails that the legions are particularly adapted to southern conditions, but according to the experience of the specialists of the United States department of agriculture southern poultrymen realize just as satisfactory results—and in many instances more favorable returns—from the maintenance of the heavier, general-purpose birds.

A number of failures in the poultry business on the part of newcomers in Florida, who embarked in specialized production of poultry products, are explained by the fact that most of them were unfamiliar with local conditions and started on too extensive a scale. A beginner in chicken raising in a new locality should always start on a small scale and expand his operations as he learns more about local conditions and as his returns from the business justify. For the man who is experienced in poultry raising and who will adapt himself to new conditions readily and not take excessive risks, and who is supplied with plenty of working capital the southern states apparently offer a fair opportunity.

WHITE-SHELLED EGG LAYERS

Fowls of Mediterranean Breeds Best Suited for This Purpose—Classed as Nonlayers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Poultry of the Mediterranean or of our breeds are best suited for the production of white-shelled eggs. Representatives of this class are found largely for the production of eggs rather than for meat production. Among the popular breeds of this class are Leghorns, Minorcas, Anas, and Andalusians. One of the characteristics of the egg layers is the fact that they are classed as nonlayers. That is, they lay eggs, but they do not become broody and sit on their eggs. Some parts of this class are kept for the purpose of hatching and raising young.

In Spain, where old customs are unknown, as all girls marry, the recognized length of an engagement is one month.

One Reason Why I Ask Your Vote

This Is One of Several Which You Will Get In Due Time

Eight years ago when I ran for the office of Prothonotary of the county I was defeated at the primary. Recognizing the right of the present incumbent to the second term, I did not attempt to run at the last election.

This year I feel that, in view of the good sportsmanship displayed, I am entitled to your most earnest consideration when you cast your vote at the primary. I have served the Republican party well. I have been a lifelong adherent to the principles promulgated by exponents of Republican doctrine.

Milkmen notified their patrons that the juice had advanced another cent.

Manuel Harley and son Paul Harley, left on Saturday for Warren, Ohio, where they expect to reside permanently, the latter removing his family to that city just as soon as he can rent a house.

The funeral of the late Rev. Irvin P. Hawkins was held yesterday from the Grace Lutheran church, and was attended by a large concourse of friends. A number of out-of-town ministers were present, as was also a large number of people from Mahaffey New Millport, and other towns in which he had preached and resided. The floral tribute was beautiful, noting the high esteem they had held for the deceased during his earthly life. When the funeral cortege arrived at the New Millport cemetery, the casket was opened in order that the people of that vicinity, who knew and loved him, might cast their last look upon his countenance.

The following worded communication is explanatory within itself. "Mr. L. J. LaPorte, Dear Sir: In your article in the Clearfield Progress describing the floats and so on of the Labor Day celebration, we noticed the mention of the float of the Sphinx club was omitted. For your information this float was in the first division and was in line behind the Red Men. The members thought this was an unintentional oversight on your part and would be pleased if you would mention this in an early issue. Thanks. Yours truly, Ralph Pilkington, Secretary."

Foley's Honey and Tar COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Gave Relief C. E. Summers, Holdrege, Neb., writes "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough and cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad and cold so severe for two or three nights. A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using on directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success. "Sold Everywhere."

GENERAL PERSHING ARRIVES HOME

FULL HOUR OF CHEERING AND FLAG RAISING FEATURE OF HIS WELCOME

ACCEPTS TRIBUTE IN NAME OF HIS MEN WHO WENT ACROSS THE DEEP TO FIGHT FOR FAIR FRANCE

SAYS RECEPTION IS OVERWHELMING

HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 8.—The Leviathan with General Pershing aboard docked at Hoboken at 8:45 this morning. He stepped ashore at 9:20, kissed his two sisters and shook hands with Secretary of War Baker. In response to the greetings of the multitude assembled along the water front he said "it is overwhelming. I accept it in the name of the brave Americans who fought for France."

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—General Pershing, the man who led America's armed forces to victory is home again. Hailed as the greatest military leader of a democratic country he stepped ashore to the din and tumult of hundreds of thousands of people who cheered themselves hoarse. More than two and a half years ago General Pershing sailed from Hoboken with a mere handful of men. His movements at that time were shrouded in secrecy. A German victory in France seemed imminent. Shortly his force was augmented and under his leadership the khaki clad youths of America struck the blow that sent Hun militarism reeling to certain defeat and humiliation. In contrast to the stealth of his departure, a stealth made necessary by the U-boat peril and German spies, his home coming was the signal for the greatest demonstration ever seen on the Atlantic coast. On the gang plank, his grim soldierly bearing personified the millions of khaki clad Americans who fought under him. Emblazoned on his shield were the words, Chateau Thierry, Argonne, Meuse and Cantigny. In his soul lay the spirit of the first fifty thousands who went with him to France. This spirit was reflected in the thousands who bade him welcome and who gave vent to that spirit in an hour of cheering and flag waving. Tens of thousands of visitors from all over the United States had flocked to the port to participate in the welcome and get a glance at America's greatest living soldier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The scene and will take four hours to pass in review. General Pershing's welcome and the review of the victorious First Division pioneers is strikingly appropriate. The Pioneers landed in France shortly after the Commander-in-Chief, who reached Paris on June 13, 1917, just as the morale of the French was ebbing low. The American General and the handful of "Yanks" who paraded in Khaki shirts through Paris on that July Fourth, a few days later, were a strange sight to be widely affectionate French, to whom courage and hope returned like a flash of lightning.

The next few months were a period of allied struggle to keep up morale, while General Pershing raced against time, training fighting divisions just behind the lines, building harbor facilities, railroads, telegraph lines and service of supplies which in the following summer enabled him to throw and maintain almost five million men per month against the Germans and wear out their best divisions.

General Pershing and his staff concentrated their strategic plans on the front between Metz and Verdun, where the final decision was eventually worked out, but not until after Americans had been thrown in at practically every point along the line from Alsace to Belgium, following General Pershing's famous offer to General Foch of anything and everything America possessed to dam Ludendorff's waves in the drive to Paris in the spring of 1918.

General Pershing's first victory was the wiping out of the St. Mihiel salient, and was quickly followed by a herculean offensive near Verdun. American divisions rolled into the months long battle until it seemed as if General Pershing in the rear had unlimited resources to tap so smoothly did the organization work. In November the Germans capitulated just as Yankee divisions broke the last German lines in defense until the Rhine.

The Army of Occupation moved quietly to Coblenz and proved the strictest but most popular forces on the parade which starts at 110th Street and moves in full war regalia, gas masks, gun, pack, artillery, ambulances, tanks and every other department, down Fifth avenue past the official reviewing stand in front of the Metropolitan Museum of Art through the Victory Arch at Madison Square. This is the first parade of full war equipment Americans have

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (United Press.)—A minor epidemic of influenza is practically inevitable throughout America this fall, according to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health for New York City.

Influenza epidemics have always swept countries in pairs, according to Commissioner Copeland. The last one in America prior to last winter was in 1891, which was the minor appendage to the major epidemic of 1890.

Dr. Copeland looks for the epidemic this year to be much lighter than that of 1918, though minor epidemics are often as bad as the major phase. This was true of 1891, he says. But the fact that so many people were affected last year gives added immunity this year.

Speaking to the United Press, Dr. Copeland said "I have no doubt but that we will have another epidemic this year, though infinitely less violent than last year's, when practically every person was afflicted."

"Seventy per cent of last year's victims were between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, probably due to the fact that so many men were in training camps."

"My only fear is that it will attack another age group this year. Apparently the germs develop an appetite for a certain kind of food and choose people of a certain age, though there is no known explanation for the attraction to certain ages."

Asked what could be done to prepare, Dr. Copeland prescribed "soap and water and fresh air."

"Influenza is essentially a house disease," he said. "Apparently it needs long continual contact to become infected. It is not like smallpox, which you could get in a minute. You have to live with influenza to get it."

"It naturally follows that out-of-door life, sleeping with windows open regardless of the weather, taking exercise, and using common sense with regard to food, are the best preventative."

"Above all, avoid those who have influenza. In families patients who have influenza or colds ought to be kept by themselves. They should not associate with others."

"Apparently the germs of influenza are conveyed by the hands more easily than other ways. Everyone should have clean hands. People should make it a rule to wash the hands and face several times a day with soap and water."

Commissioner Copeland says there is no cause for excitement since the Board of Health is watching symptoms of influenza the world over and is co-operating with other boards of health throughout America. It is also working on vaccines.

"Masks are no good, it has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of scientists," says Doctor Copeland. "We are old fashioned here. We do not believe in closing schools or churches. We did everything unconventional here in 1918 and had the lowest death rate of all."

To prove that masks are dangerous instead of healthful, Commissioner Copeland cites the case of San Francisco, which had a high death rate, he thinks because "the masks are filthy, prevent the patient from getting good air, and cause him to breathe bad breath."

"Above all, let's not get excited," says Commissioner Copeland, who advises everyone to do his utmost to "keep his equanimity, piety, and occupation."

Wilson Tells Nebraskans The Treaty is Work Of Honest Men

ADMITS SHANTUNG IS NOT IDEAL

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—President Wilson arrived here this morning at nine o'clock and was greeted by a crowd which completely filled the streets for eight blocks. Soldiers from the Omaha fort opened a passage way to enable the party to get to the auditorium.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—The President of the United States arrived at the auditorium this morning promptly at ten o'clock and was greeted by a full house. Fully 6,000 people packed the building and many were unable to gain admittance.

By United Press Correspondent

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 8.—Reservations to the peace treaty were argued today by President Wilson in his speech to Omaha citizens. Going into detail on the various objections to the treaty Mr. Wilson summed up his opinion in just four words "no need for reservations." Defending the treaty against those who are solicitous over the welfare of the Monroe Doctrine Mr. Wilson declared "the Monroe Doctrine is authenticated by all the great nations of the world therefore there is no need of a single reservation." He wanted to know if those who are for quick withdrawal from the league were such poor patriots that they would withdraw from the reconstruction tasks without lending a hand and helping to work out the plans adopted in the treaty. He declared that "domestic matters were not interfered with by the treaty."

Holding a copy of the treaty in his hands he dramatically announced, "this is the work of honest men." His statement drew prolonged cheers from the crowd. Again commenting on the senate he criticized that body for the delay in ratification of the treaty and added, "No man could tell how long it would take that body to do anything."

The President admitted that he had a dislike for the Shantung settlement but declared that it would do no good to refuse to ratify the treaty as so doing would not help China in any way. Again he put up the argument that the opponents of his plans should put up or shut up.

He told Nebraskans that the covenant of the league of nations was the only guarantee against war and without it there would be another war within a generation.

ON THE PRESIDENT'S TRAIN—Professing confidence in victory for the peace treaty and league of nations, Woodrow Wilson today resumed the making of his report to the American people. He is working on two speeches for today. This morning at Omaha and tonight at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Tomorrow he will speak at St. Paul and Minneapolis. Early this morning the presidential train was switched onto a side track near Underwood, Nebraska, as it was ahead of its schedule and it was desired to delay arrival at Omaha until the scheduled time. The President arose early and found the "traveling White House" setting in a magnificent corn field.

VILLA LOSES 356 MEN BUT SUCCEEDS IN ELUDING HIS OLD ENEMIES

BULLETIN, GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 9.—In three successive engagements, General Manuel Dieguez, commander of the Carranza forces in pursuit of Villa and his army in the state of Durango, has completely wiped out the Villista cavalry, according to a statement made by the Mexican Counsel, Senor Fierro here.

The Carranza forces killed 356 Villa followers and captured 800 horses with a large quantity of ammunition, the statement said.

Villa, his chief lieutenant and eighty men escaped into the mountains and are being pursued by a Carranza force under Capt. Caesar Castro. The engagements took place near Durango City, San Gabriel and Nombre.

WALTER CLARK DIES OF INJURIES

Walter Clark, of Hillsdale, aged 30, and married, died at the Clearfield hospital at 11 o'clock this morning of injuries received when he was crushed under a falling electric light pole while assisting in erecting a power line to the Staver mines near Dime-ling station.

The accident occurred near the Mitchell "Stone House" farm on the Ridge, Saturday morning last about 8:30 o'clock. The pole gang was attempting to set a pole when it broke away and fell catching Clark across the back of the neck and shoulders and crushing him to the ground. One hip was dislocated and he was injured internally, blood gushing from his nose and mouth in torrents.

The injured man was at once removed to the Clearfield Hospital where his injuries were attended to and he was made as comfortable as possible. He rallied for a time and it was at first thought that he had not been seriously injured. A change for the worse occurred yesterday and he continued to sink until the end came. He suffered terribly during last night and this morning.

Walter Clark was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Hillsdale. He was an industrious, hardworking man, well thought of by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and three small children, in addition to his parents, three brothers and two sisters.

The West Side W. C. T. U. will meet with the President, Mrs. Robb, this evening instead of meeting at the parsonage.

The first woman to become honorary colonel of a regiment was Princess Charlotte of Prussia, who married Czar Nicholas I, and who, on becoming a widow, asked her brother, then king of Prussia, to transfer to her the colonelcy of the Six Regiment of Prussian Cuirassiers. He did so, and thus the fashion started.

The Serbian woman ranks among the most intellectual in the world. No Serbian girl would feel that she could hold up her head in society unless she could speak at least four languages, and there is scarcely a Serbian woman but can play some musical instrument.

The Serbian laws respecting women are unsurpassed anywhere in the world, the husband being responsible not only for his wife, but for his unmarried sisters.

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED AT JACKSONVILLE

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 8.—Two negroes were taken from the Jacksonville jail today and lynched by an infuriated mob. The negroes were accused of the murder of a resident of Jacksonville. The men were hanged to trees then riddled with bullets after which they were cut down and dragged through the streets.

THREE KILLED IN U. S. SHIP NEW MEXICO

BULLETIN, SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 8.—Departure of the U. S. S. New Mexico, flag ship of the Pacific fleet, for northern waters of the Pacific will likely be delayed owing to a serious explosion in one of the vessels today. Three men were killed. The New Mexico was to have left tonight for the coast of Washington.

The wife of William P. Taner, a Chicago railroad man, caught her foot in a switch "frog" in the yards near Chicago where her husband worked. The husband was with her when the accident occurred and assisted by another man attempted to extricate the woman from her dangerous predicament, as a fast train bore down upon them. When the husband saw it was impossible to liberate the woman he said, "Mary we can't get you out, but I will stay with you" and with that he threw his arms about his wife and almost instantly the locomotive struck them and they were hurled into eternity together, leaving three small children to face the world as orphans.

The action of the Chicago husband is being discussed today from Maine to California. There can be no question about Taner's bravery, but many consider that under the circumstances his thoughts should have been of his little children left alone in the world.

This incident serves to recall to the older people of this section the death of the lamented and gifted hymn writer the late Rev. P. P. Bliss who was born near Pensfield and lived for a time near the George W. Hall home at Hyde City. Rev. Bliss' death was equally as heroic as that of Taner. Rev. and Mrs. Bliss were caught in a train wreck near Ashtabula, Ohio. Mrs. Bliss was pinioned beneath the wreckage of the car in which she was traveling. Her husband, the "singing evangelist" got clear of the wreck, but crawling under the debris he reached his wife's side and when the wreckage caught fire the devoted husband remained with her regardless of her protests until they were both burned to death.

WATCH INFLUENZA

Officials of the State Department of Health say that reports received on inquiries into cases of influenza occurring in York, Luzerne and other counties of Pennsylvania do not indicate that it is an unusual type of the disease and that it does not show signs of the preliminary cases of the serious outbreak which occurred about eleven months ago in this state. It was pointed out at the Department of Health today that a certain number of cases of influenza have been reported in this state every summer and that the number heard of recently has been about normal. There is nothing thus far, it is stated at the capital, to indicate that there has been any recurrence of the epidemic of last year, but a careful watch is being kept and officers have been asked to investigate and report immediately upon symptoms of any influenza cases discovered. Preparations have been made by various branches of the state government to act in event of any increase in the number of cases and the precautions necessary are being urged by many physicians.

WALT MASON CHIRPS THRIFT

Someone asked Walt Mason what he thought of the High Cost of Living. Walt might have replied like the rest of us, with every other word a () but he didn't. He emitted a warble and it has more punch to it than a whole string of ()s. Here it is:

BURNING MONEY

"Life is gay and blithe and sunny since the peace dove hit the breeze; every one is burning money just as though it grew on trees. I insist on thrift and saving, but there's none to heed my words; Johnnies say that I am raving, and throw money to the birds. Men are drawing princely wages, and their breasts are filled with mirth, and they jeer foreboding sages who predict a day of dearth; but that day will come as surely as tomorrow's sun will rise; things will then be going poorly with the giddy spendthrift guys. Things won't boom along forever as they're booming now, my friends; and the man who's truly clever saves as ably as he spends. It is patent to the knowing, in expansive times like these, that the kopecks won't be growing always on the shrubs and trees. There will come a day of trouble, when this boom is left behind, and the kopeck and the ruble will be mighty hard to find; happy when the lads whose wages have been safely placed in brine, who obey the seers and sages, when the saving graft was fine. And how sick will be the mortals who like spendthrifts now behave, who reply with jeers and choruses when we call on them to save."

Today's Political Review

There are so many good things he was Deputy Treasurer under Les- that may be said of the various candidates on the Republican ticket that it would take endless time and space to tell half of what we would like to record so we had to quit discussing Bratton and his case long before we had exhausted the subject in order that we might do justice to those who follow him on the ticket.

First to follow him is Richard Burchill, a stalwart Republican of Houtzdale who was a candidate for the office eight years ago. This year he first announced as a candidate for County Commissioner but later in the season switched to the old position. Mr. Burchill is not making a very vigorous campaign but is depending on his friends throughout the county to speak a good word for him. Mr. Burchill is a butcher by trade and has a prosperous business at Houtzdale.

This year he was the mercantile appraiser, the appointee of the Board of Commissioners. He performed his duties in a satisfactory manner and made a host of friends on his trip through the county. Next in line comes John E. Johnson of DuBois, who maintains that he is a real contender for the place and is losing no opportunities to put his claims before the voters. Early in the morning and late at night he can be found at work with the individual voter and he lives to catch them in bunches. This man Johnson does not even stop electioneering at lunch time and keeps right on shaking hands with his right hand while feigning with his left. Those methods have elected him in the past. Mr. Johnson is not a novice in the political game as he was a candidate eight years ago for the same office and four years ago when he stayed in the game against Moore. Prominent in the ranks of the firemen he expects to get a good vote among the fire laddies in the different parts of the county. He is a machinist by trade but has not worked at his trade for several years. He has been identified with amusement enterprises and was for a time in the bond brokerage business.

George W. Ralston is the last name appearing on the ticket and his name is frequently mentioned as one of the quite probabilities. Mr. Ralston is a native of Cooper township who came to Clearfield several years ago. He has been a court house attaché ever since coming to Clearfield when

People interested in the forthcoming primaries and fall elections are busily engaged in making an analysis of the two registration days, figuring out just what the results will be. On the face of returns there can be but one conclusion—this is a Republican year, and the Republican candidates are going to be heavily supported. There is one feature that is decidedly interesting. That is the large number of Democrats who have deserted their party and are registering as Republicans. Some people state that this is for the purpose of having a say in the Republican primaries, but good Democrats claim that is being done because these Democrats have become "paved" at President Wilson and the peace covenant. This is said to be especially true as regards the treatment accorded the Irish delegation, who sought the support of the President on the Irish question. No support was given them and many Democrats are changing their party affiliations as a result.—DuBois Courier.

ABOUT OURSELVES, OUR READERS AND OUR ADVERTISERS

The Progress is probably not one of the necessities of life, in fact many tell us that it is a real luxury to have it in the home and office and workshop, but a good live daily newspaper, whether it is The Progress or another, is a necessity in this day and age of the world when events are moving so swiftly and so much depends upon what we know of the doings of our neighbors throughout the county, the nation and the world.

The "red envelope" method of notifying subscribers when their subscription expires has worked out to a queen's taste with our mail subscribers and they like it as well as we do. They tell us so. The condition of our mail subscription today is such that not one subscriber owes us one penny and we hereby give a clean receipt to every reader who gets his paper by mail. If we have made a mistake about this or made any mis-statement we invite any subscriber who gets his paper by mail to come into the office and get a receipt in full to date for the mere asking. That is pretty strong isn't it? But it is true. Every one of our readers who gets his paper thru the mails has paid for the very paper he is reading tonight. Speaks well for these people as paying honest citizens, doesn't it? And how much better it is for the advertiser to have this condition of affairs with the newspaper he uses than in the several mediums which might as well be consigning their papers to the cows and horses and dogs so far as getting paid for it is concerned. Then here is another angle. The fellow who will pay for his newspaper will pay any and all of his bills. Ever think about that? That is why we are proud of our subscribers. They are honest, paying people and advertising your goods in a paper they pay for and read is good business.

Of course, these people are busy. Being honest, they have to work hard and long these days to keep paying their bills and therefore to keep being honest insofar as a man can be honest by paying his bills. In their busy effort to meet and keep on top of Old Man H. C. Living they sometimes forget to give the proper attention to that little impudent "red envelope" and then we bring them up with a quick haul. Some night they do not get their paper. Then it dawns on them that they let their subscription expire and they make a quick rush to the postoffice with the little red demon. Do they get sore about it? No, they know it is good business. They want it that way and they appreciate the business like methods we employ.

At Clearfield, Woodland, Curwensville and Grampian we maintain carrier systems and at these points we do not require cash in advance on subscriptions but we give a worth while discount for cash in advance. Subscriptions at these points are charged for at the rate of forty cents per month until paid but any subscriber has the option of paying for the amount due at the time of the call of the collector and then taking The Progress for an additional three months for a dollar, six months for two dollars or a year for four dollars. And although we lose eighty cents a year on the fellow who pays in this manner in advance we are glad to do it as collecting and record keeping costs money. The cost of delivering The Progress to readers in Clearfield alone is one hundred dollars a month. Perhaps you had not thought of that. This is why we charge forty cents per month unless it is paid in advance.

Now we are down to the important part. If you are a mail subscriber, watch for that red envelope and fire it back to us quick. Don't forget to sign your name as many subscribers have done during the past three or four weeks. If you are a carrier subscriber, the next time the boy calls, have an extra dollar, or two or four to pay in advance. You will like it better that way.

Remember that every dollar we get is going right back into the newspaper. You can see it improving. We know it. Why? Because you have told us so. We set out to make The Progress an institution that Clearfield countians would be proud of and we are going to do it. Your prompt payments will help. We do not ask for charity. We are not starving but we are not afraid of work and we are working long into the nights to make The Progress a real newspaper. Some day we are going to achieve our aims and on that day we will come right out in bold type and say THANK YOU.

THE BOYS OF THE G. A. R. THEN AND NOW

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Sept. 8. (Unitary Press.)—Just thirty-one years ago today all Columbus was keyed up to the highest pitch of expectancy and preparation. Decorator were swarming the city with flags and bunting. Gas-lighted arches were being erected in the downtown sections. Mammoth cities of tents were springing up and hand stands and reviewing stands were being built along High street. Columbus was preparing to welcome 100,000 veterans of the civil war to the twenty-second national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Then the blue-coated hordes swept into Columbus from every section of the country.

On Tuesday, September 11, 1888, was held the greatest parade in the history of the city. Leading the columns of sturdy civil warriors were General William Tecumseh Sherman and ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The soldiers marched with firm step and clear eye. The day was clear. A half hundred bands and drum corps resounded martial music while the tread of thousands of feet beat in cadence on the cobblestones of High street. The procession was miles in length and took hours and hours to pass the reviewing stand in East Broad street.

The fifty-third national G. A. R. encampment this week will probably be held in the city of Columbus, Ohio. Instead of mammoth camps, negative years ago to accommodate the thousands of soldiers, Columbus today was throwing open its homes to the civil war veterans who began pouring into the city on every train. The camps are not needed. These the last ever held by the veterans of years gone by.

There were 100,000 veterans in the city then. Now there will not be more than a tenth of that number. Instead of the numerous band stands placed along High street, first aid stations have been erected to care for the aged veterans who may succumb to the strenuous activities of the parade to be held next Wednesday.

In 1888, the march was nearly three miles in length. Next week's line of march will cover only a very short distance, probably less than a mile. There will be thousands who will not march with their comrades. Special reviewing stands have been erected for them.

Time has marched on in thirty-one years, and many thousands of soldiers have dropped the ranks.

For the first time in the history of G. A. R. encampments, other military organizations will take part. Thousands of Spanish War and World War veterans will march with the civil war heroes. The younger blood of America will take over the more strenuous duties of the civil warriors with zeal born of victory.

Former Governor James A. Campbell, director general of the encampment, has been assured that nearly every post of the American Legion in Ohio will take part in the parade.

Those Curtains— do They Need Washing?

For months now your curtains have been gathering dust and soot, for windows have been opened wide to invite in summer's breezes.

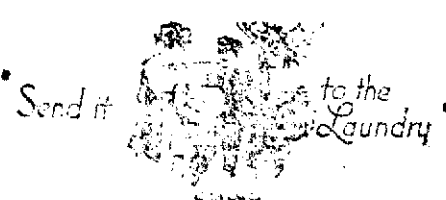

Soot and dust—only too well you realize how they cling and stain. Wouldn't this be a good time to rout them, before they work too deeply into your curtains to be washed out?

We make a specialty of washing curtains—cottons, laces, and all fine nets. Our soft water and careful washing make them as fine, bright and fluff as new.

And we dry them better than could any hand-dryer. Every curtain is measured before we launder it. When it is ready for drying we place it on a special frame of exactly the same measurements.

You'll find no end of satisfaction in sending your curtains to us. Just give them to our driver when he calls for your family washing.

DUBOIS MERCHANTS PLAN FALL OPENING

At one of the most largely attended meetings of Dubois merchants ever held, yesterday morning it was decided to hold the annual fall opening this year on September 17, 18, 19, and 20. The meeting took place at the Community Association rooms and it was particularly gratifying to those who had been at the head of the movement to see such a fine response to the invitation for the gathering. Almost every line of trade was represented and every one expressed themselves as heartily in favor of an opening this year that would far surpass anything yet held.

It is planned to have the opening along different lines this year, in that there will be no formal opening. Hereafter the stores have been decorated and music hired for the opening evening. This year the opening will be a day-time affair and will cover the three days, during which time the merchants will put forward the styles and goods for the fall and winter season.

Fred Brown was named as the chairman of the movement and he will name a committee to work with him in perfecting the arrangements.

With the war a thing of the past and merchants able to get goods and styles that were under prohibition during the war it is expected that the opening this fall will be more elaborate than ever before. At least the merchants of Dubois will work to make this possible and there is every reason to believe that they will succeed. Already most of the goods have been received and are now receiving inspection. During the forthcoming days additional goods will be received and will be arrayed for special display during the opening days. At this time, too, the stores will be specially decorated and it is certain that the local establishments will present an unusually fine appearance during the latter part of September.—Dubois Courier.

POULTRY

BETTER CHICKENS IN SOUTH

Propitious Climate Enables Owner to Produce Eggs to Better Advantage—Some Obstacles.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Increased interest in poultry raising in the general farming sections of the South, with purchase of much better stock, is reported by a specialist of the United States department of agriculture who recently investigated the status and activities of Old Mother Hen in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Producers are working not only to supply the home market but eggs are also being shipped from Mississippi, Alabama and Texas to Memphis, St. Louis, New York and other marketing centers.

The advantages of the South for poultry keeping are manifold, and include a propitious climate, which enables the flock owner to produce eggs to better advantage during the winter season, while he also can make use of simpler and cheaper houses than can his northern associates. Furthermore the favorable weather conditions in the South promote the feeding of green stuff to the hens practically the year around.

There are certain disadvantages, too, such as prevalence of insect pests, including mites, lice, and in some sections mosquitoes and stick-tight fleas, as well as the blue bug in parts of Texas. Furthermore southern markets are not high-paying consumers of locally produced eggs. This is particularly true in the resort section of Florida, where for many years the trade has been accustomed to import its eggs from the North and West. It does not readily transfer this business to local producers. In addition the southern market for eggs is usually "spoiled" due to fluctuations in the tourist traffic.

During the heat of summer egg losses in the South aggregate a considerable sum, largely due to the development of fertile eggs. It is essential that southern producers exert every effort to produce and market only infertile eggs in order to control this source of loss. A common opinion prevails that the legions are particularly adapted to southern conditions, but according to the experience of the specialists of the United States department of agriculture southern poultrymen realize just as satisfactory results—and in many instances more favorable returns—from the maintenance of the heavier, general-purpose birds.

A number of failures in the poultry business on the part of newcomers in Florida, who embarked in specialized production of poultry products, are explained by the fact that most of them were unfamiliar with local conditions and started on too extensive a scale. A beginner in chicken raising in a new locality should always start on a small scale and expand his operations as he learns more about local conditions and as his returns from the business justify. For the man who is experienced in poultry raising and who will adapt himself to new conditions readily and not take excessive risks, and who is supplied with plenty of working capital the southern states apparently offer a fair opportunity.

WHITE-SHELLED EGG LAYERS

Fowls of Mediterranean Breeds—Best Suited for This Purpose—Classed as Nonlayers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Poultry of the Mediterranean or egg breeds are best suited for the production of white-shelled eggs. Representatives of this class are found largely for the production of eggs rather than for meat production. Among the popular breeds of this class are Leghorns, Minorcas, Anas, and Andalusians. One of the outstanding characteristics of the egg breeds is the fact that they are classed as nonlayers. That is, they do not lay eggs. However, many of these breeds are kept for the purpose of producing and marketing the usually enjoyed.

One Reason Why I Ask Your Vote

This Is One of Several Which You Will Get In Due Time

Eight years ago when I ran for the office of Prothonotary of the county I was defeated at the primary. Recognizing the right of the present incumbent to the second term, I did not attempt to run at the last election.

This year I feel that, in view of the good sportsmanship displayed, I am entitled to your most earnest consideration when you cast your vote at the primary. I have served the Republican party well. I have been a lifelong adherent to the principles promulgated by exponents of Republican doctrine.

Emily Daub, employed at the P. R. R. station left last Friday for a two week's vacation. He goes to Pittsburgh and thence to Erie where he will be joined by a son of H. T. Smith when together they will make a tour of the principle interesting points in Canada.

Milkmen notified their patrons that the juice had advanced another cent.

Manuel Harley and son Paul Harley, left on Saturday for Warren, Ohio, where they expect to reside permanently, the latter removing his family to that city just as soon as he can rent a house.

The funeral of the late Rev. Irvin P. Hawkins was held yesterday from the Grace Lutheran church, and was attended by a large concourse of friends. A number of out-of-town ministers were present, as was also a large number of people from Mahaffey New Millport, and other towns in which he had preached and resided. The floral tribute was beautiful, noting the high esteem they had held for the deceased during his earthly life. When the funeral cortege arrived at the New Millport cemetery, the casket was opened in order that the people of that vicinity, who knew and loved him, might cast their last look upon his countenance.

The following worded communication is explanatory within itself. "Mr. L. J. LaPorte, Dear Sir: In your article in the Clearfield Progress describing the floats and so on of the Labor Day celebration, we noticed the mention of the float of the Sphinx club was omitted. For your information this float was in the first division and was in line behind the Red Men. The members thought this was an unintentional oversight on your part and would be pleased if you would mention this in an early issue. Thanks. Yours truly, Ralph Pilkington, Secretary."

CARD OF THANKS We take this means of thanking our friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the sickness and death of our baby.

Foley's Honey and Tar COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Cures Croup C. E. Summers, Holdrege, Neb., writes "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough and cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad and cold so severe for two or three nights. A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using on directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success. "Sold Everywhere."
